DAILY SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, Proprietor.

From the New York World.

GENERAL HANCOCK.

The prudence and patriotism with which Gen. Hancock is administering the affairs of his department attest the wisdom of President Johnson in displacing his predecessor. General Grant's intemperate remonstrance was more creditable to the fidelity of his friendship than to the soundness of his judgment. While Sheridan was in command the department was never quiet. That meddlesome officer resembled the unfortunate people who never have good neighbors. He found himself under a constant necessity of doing strong acts; and the protests against his removal assumed that the department was so full of turbulent, mutinous spirits that only his vigorous hand could hold them in subjection. But when he left the rebellious spirits seemed to depart with him, as the peace of a neighborhood is restored when the unfortunate family that always has bad neighbors moves away. General Sheridan's removal, which it was asserted, before it took place, would make him the next President, is much more likely to confer that honor upon his successor, if Gen. Hancock continues to evince the consummate civil prudence he has thus far exhibited. It bids fair to place him among the small number from whom the Democratic candidate will be selected, while Sheridan's supposed claims have gone into a total eclipse.

For our part, we hope that a statesman of large civil experience may be run by both parties. We are not likely to need military abilities; or if we should, the Presidential mansion is not a fit place for the headquarters of a fighting army. Great measures of civil policy and administrative reform should stand in the foreground under the next President. There is no fitness in choosing a mere military man to discharge duties requiring great civil experience. But if the Republicans attempt to sway the canvass by the eclat of a military name it may be expedient to neutralize the effort by putting a popular military name into the other scale. If this necessity should be forced upon us, an accidental advantage may result from the Republican reconstruction scheme by affording a field to test the civil capacity of one of our most admired and meritorious soldiers.

The standing electioneering calumny of the Republicans, that every man who disapproves of their negro policy is rebel at heart, recoils against its authors when levelled at so bright a reputation as General Hancock's. For loyalty, gallantry, zeal, activity, and the solid value of his services, there was no officer in the Union army, who, with equal opportunities, left so shining a record. If he had ever had a separate command, he might have acted a more prominent, but he could not easily have acted a more brilliant part. Separate commands were lavished on officers of a different school of politics. The Republican Banks had a separate command both in the Valley and in Louisiana, and he acquired everything but honor in both.—The renegade Democrat, Butler, had separate commands, and made himself a butt of derision. Pope had a separate command, and his incompetency was demonstrated by the second Bull Run. Burnside had a separate command, and the result was his useless slaughter of our troops at Fredericksburg. Hooker had a separate command, and the result was his disgraceful defeat at Chancellorsville. The Conservative Meade was promoted to a separate command by accident and a necessity. He won the great victory of Gettysburg and was again subordinated. Democratic officers, who were not servile enough to renounce or dissemble their principles, had no fair chance in the army. The crushing of Gen. McClellan by political malice was a warning which disclosed to ambitious army officers a fatal rock in the channel of promotion.

Although General Hancock never had a separate command while the war lasted, there were but few directors of armies who blazed into such distinction as this brilliant subordinate. The Army of the Potomac, in which he served, always ranked as the first of our armies, and Hancock as one of its brightest ornaments. His purity of character, his patriotic ardor, his gallantry, alacrity, abilities, modesty, and good fortune, acquired for him a reputation which was never sullied by one breath of suspicion or one word of censure. Whenever it is said that Conservative politics are inconsistent with vigorous, devoted loyalty, it is a sufficient reply to point to General Hancock, the esteemed and gallant representative of hundreds of Democratic officers, and hundreds of thousands of Democratic soldiers. The surviving soldiers of the Army of the Potomac feel for him a warmth of admiring regard which the colder character of Gen. Grant never kindled; and the people share the feeling.

General Hancock has thus far proved himself as judicious in peace as he was brave and brilliant in war. Under his administration there have been no New Orleans riots; no insubordination in civil officers to give him trouble; no disaffection to his person, though he fills a most unwelcome office. He resorts to no strong measures because the considerate equity of his administration disarms opposition. The turbulent and rebellious population which it was said that no hand less formidable than Sheridan's could control, and which he hardly succeeded in controlling by his constant acts of rigor and summary dismissals, is so spontaneously orderly and quiet under Hancock that, to all appearance, he could govern as effectually without an army as with. This contrast, so creditable to Hancock, illustrates the superiority of the Democratic method of dealing with the South. If General Hancock, when sent to execute an odious law, can govern with so little friction how easily might loyalty be maintained in the South if the policy of the government as well as its officers were conciliatory!

To illustrate the temper of General Hancock's administration, and his steadfast fealty to law, we copy the following statement from the New Orleans Picayune:

"On Saturday night a father and son, known respectively in this community by the names of Simeon M. Frank Wallsche and Edmund F. Wallsche, who for several months past have been proprietors of the sash and planing mills, called the Mariposa Mills, on St. Joseph street, were arrested by the police, under a warrant issued by Governor Flanders, who had received a requisition for them from the Governor of the State of New York, they being indicted in the City of New York, it is alleged, with obtaining goods from merchants there, about eighteen months ago, to the amount of $100,000, by false pretences.

Saturday night Judge Cotton, counsel for the accused, sued out, before Judge Theard, a writ of habeas corpus, returnable this morning at 10 o'clock. It appears, however, that General Hancock learned late last evening of the simple fact of the issuance of the writ by a court of competent jurisdiction, and of the probability, under peculiar attendant circumstances, that the writ was not to be respected. He at once went in person to the office of Chief of Police, about 6:30 o'clock, and told Major Williamson that he had learned that a writ of habeas corpus had been issued, and that owing to some illegality it was probable that it would not be obeyed. He will hold you responsible in this matter. These prisoners must be produced. I believe you will produce them, but I will myself take the necessary precaution that they be produced. I have issued an order that the writ of habeas corpus is to be observed and it shall be. I am here to protect the dignity of government, and the rights of the people as to life, liberty, and property must be preserved. So long as I am a power here, the law shall be respected. I know nothing, Mr. Chief of Police, about this case; do not know what these men are charged with; but it is sufficient for me to know, and you to know, that a writ of habeas corpus has been issued, and that writ shall be respected. I will sink the boat in the middle of the river with cannon that takes these men on board, and intercept any train of cars that carries them. If the law is not observed, who and what is safe? I may be taken away, you may be, any of us may be. Justice must be upheld. I hold you, therefore, Mr. Chief of Police, responsible for the delivery of these men before Judge Theard, in obedience to that writ.'

The General then took his departure, and we felt as though we had listened truly to the defender of law and dignity of government. We don't remember of ever having witnessed a more impressive scene."

The proceedings in this case of requisition may be all regular and the grounds of the arrest sufficient. Those are points on which General Hancock need have no opinion. But it is important that citizens of this district should feel that they cannot be dragged from their homes on criminal charges and taken to a distant State to be tried, without good reasons. All that the habeas corpus will accomplish is to secure an examination of the grounds of arrest before an upright judge. If the arrest is warranted by the facts and papers, he will restore the prisoners to custody. But the firmness with which General Hancock sustains the writ, assures every innocent man in his district that innocence will insure protection at the hands of the local courts. What General Hancock establishes is a government of law, not of arbitrary force.

WHITE LABOR.

The Orangeburg (S. C.) News says:

"A worthy citizen of the Fork, with two small sons, made four hundred bushels corn, sixty bushels rice, four bales cotton, and a plenty of all kinds of provisions. A colored family working on the same plantation, superior in force to the above, made twenty bushels corn, a light bale of cotton, ten barrels of rice, and other articles of produce in proportion.

Another gentleman of the same section, who is one of our best practical planters, with three white laborers, and one or two half hands, made a crop fully equal in every respect to that of thirty colored working hands on the same ground in former seasons.

Another friend of ours, in another part of the Fork, with three plow hands and three hoe hands—all white—made 500 pounds indigo, 2 bales cotton, 550 bushels corn, 150 bushels peas, 50 bushels rice, 300 gallons syrup, ran a grist mill for the benefit of himself and neighbors, made pinders and potatoes in abundance, realized $100 from the sale of watermelons, all on lands counted poor. We like this system of agriculture; our people must no longer trust to making money out of one leading staple; they must pay their attention to a diversity of crops, and make each contribute its quota to the profits of the year. This is the only system of planting that will pay in these days on our average lands."

The above comes up to the estimate we have long formed of the superior advantages of cultivating small farms under an intelligent system of culture, and the superiority of white or trained labor. Our farmers may continue for a while, with the view of making for the present "the almighty dollar," the old system of large farms, with a large force of untrained and uncontrollable hired labor, but it will not only break them down, but break down the country. Better turn out your surplus lands to grow up anew, if you cannot sell them at reasonable prices, or cannot put them into the hands of reliable small farmers to be properly cultivated, than to pursue the old plans.

The abolition of slavery necessarily works an entire change in our former policy. Our white people must turn their attention more to intelligent and systematic farming. Farming must be made a trade, to which poor boys must be apprenticed to learn, instead of crowding the various mechanic avocations with a surplus of labor to drive all their lives and die poor. And to this must the black population come, if they ever expect to rise to the possession of property and character.

Perhaps only one in a thousand of colored men, who have been employed in agriculture all their lives, is capable of managing a farm. Not one in ten thousand knows how to make "two blades of grass grow, where one grew before." Under such circumstances, how are their children to be instructed in so essential a branch of labor, unless they are apprenticed to competent men to learn; and how can thousands of grown men learn, unless they consent to hire themselves to proper persons who can instruct them? Until the professed excessive friends of the negro and the Bureau men come to learn the true policy in this matter, and will teach the colored people the reason and necessity for this thing, labor will be demoralized and comparatively worthless.

We beg, especially, to call the attention of our farmers, generally, to the character of the above cropping. Had these persons followed the general idea, which has filled the heads of our farmers for the past two years, and gone into the cotton culture alone, what would have been the result? It has been our settled conviction, after a long observation and enquiry among farmers, that the only sound policy is, for every farmer to strive to make enough of every article which his farm will produce that is necessary for his own use, and then, for his surplus crop, rely upon those articles which are most profitable. Within our recollection, the planters of the Southern States have been put hors du combat several times by pursuing the policy of cultivating one crop and relying upon its product to purchase family supplies.

GEN. HANCOCK.—In the article which we publish, on our first page, this morning, the New York *World bestows a fitting eulogy upon the course of the Commander of the Fifth Military District. Every word of compliment which it utters is well deserved. We have seen nothing, since the termination of the war, more worthy of the better days of the Republic, than his order on assuming command, and that relative to the constitution of juries in his District. That they were not empty phrases is evidenced by the practical details of his administration. Would that we had in the South four others like him!

The World's suggestion of Gen. Hancock's name in connection with the Presidency will create a sensation, which may eventuate in his nomination.

COMPENSATION FOR SLAVES.—The Kentucky Senate has adopted, by a vote of twenty-five to six, a resolution providing for the appointment of a select committee of five from the Senate and five from the House, with instructions to report as early as practicable the assessed value of slaves taken from the citizens of Kentucky by Federal Executive proclamation, by acts of Congress, and by the amendment to the Constitution of the United States, known as the 13th. article; and also the value of such slaves taken from each county in the Commonwealth; and that said committee report what steps are necessary and proper to enable the citizens of the State to obtain compensation from the Federal Government for such slaves so taken.

We suppose that the talk of reviving the Constitution has recalled to the Kentuckians the recollection of a provision of that document which inhibits the taking of private property except on just compensation.

"NO STEPS BACKWARD."

Congress has solemnly resolved that it will not recede one iota from its programme of so called reconstruction. And Mr. Senator Wilson intimated, a few days since, in his Richmond speech, that if the Southern people voted down Convention in any one of the States, harsher measures would be visited upon them.

Caligula, of old, had equally as summary a mode of dealing with obnoxious subjects. He carried a small box containing a poisonous snuff, which he presented to those with whom he was displeased. To refuse was death—and to accept the fatal drug was destruction. Caligula would have made an excellent modern Radical.

We take it that Congress means what it says, and that we are to expect no modification of its policy. But we do not believe, in the face of the late demonstrations of popular sentiment, that a legitimate effort, on the part of the Southern people, to free themselves from the yoke which has been manufactured for them, will result as Mr. Wilson predicts. There are many reasons which prevail to make Congress persevere in its plan of reconstruction, which would not be operative upon its failure and rejection by the people. Pride of opinion, hostility to the President, a real or professed misapprehension of the public temper, and, especially, the delusion that their policy is in reality working to a successful consummation for the party, if not the country,—all of these considerations impel them to persist in the mad and ruinous programme which they have established. Let the people of the South, in the exercise of the election with which they are, at least apparently, invested by Congress itself, defeat their schemes, if possible, and new lights will dawn upon the minds of the Radical leaders.

But suppose that their present policy prevails, and that all attempts to defeat it, owing to the peculiar circumstances under which our people are placed, are impotent. What then? Why, submission with the best grace we may,—in the sure and certain conviction that, however much we may suffer for a while, the dawning of a better day will come, and that at no very remote period. No safe or binding "reconstruction" can be accomplished on any such plan, and the first great under-tow of the rebounding waves will sweep it away,—to be succeeded by some policy that shall assure calm and stability and the carrying out of the legitimate ends of Republican government.

But, we repeat, our people owe it to the vindication of their manhood, to their honor, to their pride of character, to all the high considerations which ought to control the action of individuals and peoples, to leave no stone unturned to frustrate, in the present, the evil designs of these men.—They will be unworthy the name of men, if they are deterred by any such threats as Senator Wilson's or by the hectoring of a thousand Radical bravadoes. There is an old couplet, which was used to express the heroic qualities of English character, which, with a slight paraphrase, may be applicable to our own condition:

"Naught can make us rue
If the people be to themselves but true."

WORDS OF WISDOM.

We have, heretofore, published a lengthy extract from the great speech of John Quincy Adams, at Concord, N. H. It contained much valuable instruction, but the closing sentence cannot be too often pondered. Political prejudices are exceedingly strong and are hard to remove. The old heated controversies between the Whigs and Democrats kindled fires which, even yet, have not been totally extinguished. No honest man can be expected to sanction error, no matter where he finds it, but every such man, if he is reasonable, is bound to love truth, and to admit it, whenever he finds it. Mr. Adams finds that the only party in this county, now, which holds the truth, as our fathers taught it—that the only party in the country which loves the Union, reveres the Constitution and which sympathises with the whole country, is the Democratic party; hence, he does not hesitate, although he had been identified with the Republican party, to abandon that party, and, on principle, to give his support to the principles advocated by the Democratic party. In this he acted nobly and has shown himself a true patriot,—loving country more than party.

Judge Merrimon, in his speech in this city, some time ago, took the same ground. Said he: "I am a Conservative man—I am for the Union and the Constitution, and the rights of men and civil liberty, and I go with that party which stands squarely upon that platform. I believe that that party will be successful, as sure as that the sun shines. But success may blind and mislead that party, as it has others. I should not be surprised, if, in five years, that very party, in the midst of its successes, may go to such extreme that I should be found battling against its excesses, as I am now battling against Radicalism for its anti conservatism and ultraism."

With similar views and feelings, John Quincy Adams concluded his speech in the same spirit:

"To those of you who fear to take the step I have urged, because they believe the Democratic party is a bad party, and fear that if it gets power it will abuse it, my answer is brief, but, I think, satisfactory.—You cannot put them in any dangerous power by your votes this winter; and, if, when the time comes, next fall, you find them bigoted, violent and dangerous, do to them as I would have you do to the Republicans now—leave them. Once more, gentlemen, I say I am a conservative, and, in the words of the prophet Jeremiah, I would pray you, "Stand ye in the old ways, and see, and ask for the old paths where is the good way, and ye shall find rest for your souls."

The Anti-Slavery Standard, in a letter from Washington, has a curious revelation of the feelings, plans and purposes of the Radical party. It says they have been holding conferences to effect an organization of their own, apart from that of the Republican party, and that they intend to renew the project of impeachment as a question of privilege, on which they have a right to be heard. It is refreshing to hear them complaining of "the tyranny of the majority in shutting off debate."

STATE ITEMS.

——The Roanoke News says that the closing of the hotel at Weldon has worked very great inconvenience to the travelling public. Owing to the heavy storms of the last week, the trains from the North have been running out of time, which often placed the passengers there at unseasonable hours, and after the connecting trains had left, necessitating a delay when there were no accommodations to be offered.

——The people of Chowan County, at a recent Conservative meeting, in view of the unreliability of the present system of labor, it will be remembered, proposed a Convention of delegates from the different Counties of the district, to devise some plan for the encouragement of immigration.

The Wilmington Star suggests such a Convention be formed in Raleigh immediately on the adjournment of the Conservative State Convention. It says no better time could be chosen for an exchange of views. The suggestion is a good one.

——The following gentlemen have been appointed delegates from Sampson County to the State Conservative Convention, when held, viz:

Col. Allmand A. McKoy, James M. Moseley, Dr. J. D. Pearsall, Col. John Ashford, Hardy L. Holmes, Dr. C. T. Murphy, G. S. Bronson, John A. Oates, Lewis C. King, Blackman Lee, Dr. John C. Monk, David Roy, John C. Williams, James R. Maxwell, Oliver P. White, John W. Mathis, Edward L. Faison, Abram Hobbs, John C. Wright, Edward R. Owens, James H. Turlington, John R. Beaman, James M. Smith, Charles Bronson, Daniel A. Cooper, Ric'd Herring, Robert Jones, R. Henry Lee, Robert J. Murphy, Patrick Merritt, William Daughtry, Gabriel Barbary, Dr. J. R. Maratde, Thomas B. King, Warren Johnson, Wm. B. Mathis.

——The Charlotte News says that Dr. Jones, the Assayer of the Mint at that place, will commence operations on the first of January. It adds: "From the constant reports of blasting that come to our ears from the mines in the country, we are inclined to think the Doctor will be kept pretty busy."

For the Sentinel.

MADISON, ROCKINGHAM CO., N. C., Dec. 14th., 1867.

Editors Sentinel:—In the Sentinel, of the 27th. ult., I find a communication, signed Don Pedro, purporting to give an account of the recent election, as it was conducted in Rockingham County. In this communication, I find several mistakes, one of which I desire to correct, through the columns of your paper.

The statement I desire to correct is in these words: "Mr. Lindsay, one of the Board of Registration, and also one of the Judges of the election, says that, on Friday before the election, he sent a special courier from Madison to Greensboro to prevent consolidation." In this Don Pedro was wrongly informed. I sent no special courier to Greensboro for any such object.—I sent no courier at all. I was not aware, until Sunday evening preceding the day of election, that consolidation had been effected or even contemplated. The facts of the case are simply these:

On Sunday evening preceding the day of election, I received, by special courier from Greensboro, information that the election precincts were consolidated at Leaksville. After receiving this information, I was desirous that an election should be held in Madison also,—it being a more central and convenient point for the voters bi the registration precinct. For this reason, on Monday morning, I sent the names of three persons who could act as inspectors to Maj Worth by his own courier; at the same time trying to induce him to order an election to be held at Madison, as well as at Leaksville. This communication, however, he could not have received before evening, and the next day was the first day of the election. I suppose, therefore, my note came to hand too late to have an election ordered for Madison. If Don Pedro will see and confer with the clerk at the military post in Greensboro, I promise he will be satisfied, as I was, that the reason why the election was held at Leaksville, was owing to an oversight on his part in running the dividing line the wrong way through the map of the County—having run it from East to West, instead of from North to South,—and not to such unworthy motives as he has attributed to the military authority at Greensboro. Fiat justitia ruat celum.

J. M. LINDSAY.

General Ben. Butler intends taking a tour through the South. Wardwell, of Richmond, has expressed himself as ready to receive him at the depot with a grand ovation participated in by four thousand negroes. Among the various conjectures as to the object of his visit, one is that he intends to make a permanent division in the republican party by putting himself forward as the representative of the negroes and extremists, and thus, as he thinks, indirectly aid the elections of the democratic ticket and Grant's defeat.—N. Y. Herald.

Every one must look out for their spoons.

CHANGE OF NAME.—At a meeting of the National Republican Executive Committee held in Washington, last week, Governor Ward, of New Jersey, who presided, moved that the name of the party be changed from "National Republican" to "National Union" party. When thieves find that they are about to be overtaken by their crimes they always change their names!

We observe that this statement has since been denied.

SINGULAR DIABOLISM.—A private letter from Tennessee, received yesterday, gives the particulars of a most inhuman outrage which was recently perpetrated in Williamson county, some twelve or fifteen miles Southwest of Franklin, in that State. While riding along the road a few nights ago, Mr. William B. Early, a grand nephew of Bishop Early, of Lynchburg, Va., was attacked by three negroes and a white man, whose chief object is supposed to have been robbery.—Having beaten their victim until they thought him dead, they robbed his person of all that was worth taking, and laid him upon a pile of rails which they had thrown up for the purpose, set the rails on fire, and then fled. Mr. Early came to his senses in time to save himself from the flames, but not until he had been severely burned.—Having crawled from the burning pile, he again became insensible, and lay in that condition until about sunrise the next morning, when he managed to reach the nearest house. The negroes were all arrested. Upon one of them were found evidences of his participation in the crime, and he at once confessed his guilt. Unfortunately the white man made his escape.—Louisville Journal.

A San Francisco paper looks forward to the time when grapes from California, by the Pacific railroad, will be retailed in the Atlantic States at five cents per pound.

THE COMING POLITICAL REVOLUTION AT HOME.

At the time of the Connecticut State election last spring, when the republicans put a humbug show man upon their ticket for Congress, we predicted that the people, already beginning to be dissatisfied with the policy of the radicals, would repudiate the party thus abusing its power and reject the whole of its candidates. The result verified our prediction, and the rebuke administered to the republicans was so severe that we at once discovered in it the indication of a coming political revolution throughout the country, directed against the atrocious legislation of the radical Congress. In the elections that followed in Maine and California, and subsequently in Pennsylvania and Ohio, this revolution began to take form and substance, and, despite the desperate efforts of the republicans to account for their sudden reverses on the plea of local issues, or the indifference of their supporters, occasioned by over confidence in their own strength, it became evident that a deep feeling was at work among the people, and it seemed as if the doom of radicalism was already sealed.

The tremendous change that followed in the votes of the States holding their elections in November, and especially the disastrous overthrow of the radical State ticket in New York and the complete annihilation of the party in the metropolis, put the matter beyond question or dispute, and so alarmed the radical leaders as to summarily stop the impeachment agitation in Congress. It is clear, however, that the republicans still remain resolved upon carrying out their reconstruction policy at the South, and will persist in their efforts to bring the Southern States back into the Union under the political control of the brutalized and ignorant negro population, in order that they may add to the strength of their party in the approaching Presidential election.

Under these circumstances we predict the culmination in November next of the political revolution of which we have already felt the first shock. From all the symptoms that surround us it is easy to foresee that the violence and folly of Congress, in forcing upon the country a policy entirely foreign to our institutions, and in conflict with all our ideas of freedom, justice and generosity, will unite the people upon the democratic and conservative nominee for the next Presidency, and that he will be elected by a large majority. The radicals may hope to save themselves by calling to their aid the great name of General Grant; but it that distinguished military leader should accept a nomination upon the African supremacy platform of the present Congress he will be defeated at the polls as easily as Chase or any other candidate would be. The principles that agitate the country at the present time are stronger than men, and no personal popularity can for an instant blind the eyes of the people to the importance of this issue. The reconstruction policy to which the radical party promises to adhere is an atrocious outrage upon civilized society. It degrades the white race, and, by giving political power into the uncontrolled possession of hundreds of thousands of ignorant and debased negroes, breaks down all the safeguards of society, obliterates the progress of half a century, reduces ten States of the Union to a condition of African barbarism, and demoralizes the national government. It is against this policy the people will record their votes, and it is to save the country from these evils that they will defeat the radical Presidential candidate next fall, whoever he may be.—N. Y. Herald.

THAD. STEVENS ON RECONSTRUCTION AND CONFISCATION.

We extract the following from a special dispatch to the New York Herald, giving an account of the interview between Mr. Stevens and a deputation of Loyal Leaguers from Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina, which took place in Washington on Thursday last. The dispatch says:

"Talking about reconstruction Mr. Stevens said he was about to introduce a bill to Congress to provide that a majority of registered voters are not necessary to ratify the new Constitutions; to authorize a loyal provisional government for each State, giving the Governors the appointing of officers, and also giving them power to make requisition for troops when needed; finally, it shall provide that the two fifths of the colored people who had no Congressional representation formerly shall be entitled to elect Congressmen at large from the different States. His views on confiscation were rendered in allegory, as if a man came in his house and stole a portion of his property he should fine him to the amount of what was stolen. The Rebels cost this Government a considerable amount, besides stealing property not their own, and he should be satisfied to see them obliged to make due restitution. He inquired particularly of the colored delegates the number of persons in their sections who owned large estates, and their present material prosperity. He had no hesitation in reasserting that they were acting outside of the Constitution in many respects. It had become too old fashioned for the requirements of this progressive age; and, in fact, after the lapse of every generation the Constitution should be remodelled to keep pace with the advancement of ideas."

MISERY IN THE SOUTH.—Reports from the South, no doubt but too well founded, tell the old story of want, misery and starvation coming upon the people with the coming winter. Naturally the overwhelming proportion of distress will fall upon the negroes, not only because they are the landless and houseless race, but because they have been less provident even, so far as was possible, than the whites have. They have depended upon the delusive promises of their Radical leaders that they would be provided for by Congress—that land, houses and crops should be divided, and they should have the lion's share; and led by such hopes they have not only been indifferent to labor, but have spurned it. Much of the responsibility for this lies at the door of those Radical campaigners who, following the example of Mr. Henry Wilson, went through the Southern States early in the season making political harangues. Hundreds of men of this class went in every direction in Radical pay; and while the negroes should have been ploughing and planting they were going over the country from court house to court house, following the speakers, spending what money they could gather on the railroads, and enjoying generally a political jubilee. Hence, not one in fifty made provision for the winter; and now that labor is stopped, and the planters are not under the old obligation that slavery laid upon them to support the laborer the year round, the negroes are without food or the means of getting it. Sharp misery will gnaw them to the bone, and those whom the Freedmen's Bureau can keep alive will, maybe, be somewhat wiser next year and will understand the politicians better.—N. Y. Herald.

Governor Humphreys, of Mississippi, has received such information relative to projected outbreaks among the negroes in January that he has deemed it necessary to issue a proclamation warning all combinations for such a purpose, that their intentions are known and they cannot succeed, and that if the black race believes the lands will be distributed among them they are greatly deceived.

GRANVILLE COUNTY, N. C.

THE NEXT SESSION of this Institution will open the second Wednesday in February, 1868. The location is unsurpassed for health and accessibility.

During the past session, in a family of nearly two hundred, there has scarcely been a case of sickness. The health of many invalid young ladies has been thoroughly restored by the celebrated mineral water found here, and they have prosecuted their studies with entire success.

We are immediately on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, within less than a half mile of Kittrell's Depot, and in telegraphic communication with all parts of the country.

Every facility is afforded for the most thorough and extensive education.

The Faculty is composed of five male Professors and seven lady Teachers.

Everything is new. Our musical instruments, including Piano Organ, Harp and Guitar are of the finest quality

Special attention paid to thoroughness in the English Course.

TERMS MODERATE AND ACCOMMODATING.

The young ladies all worship in the College Chapel, and hence no extra clothing is required. Millinery is in no demand at Kittrell's. Parents tell us that their daughters cost them less here, in this respect, than even at home. Taking into consideration the items of dress and medical attendance, there is no cheaper school in the south. Besides, we are determined to accommodate our patrons as far as we can as to time of payment, and to put female education within the reach of the people, in the present depressed condition of the country. OUR DAUGHTERS MUST BE EDUCATED.

The next term of the N. C. Military and Polytechnic Academy, (Hillsboro',) under the control of that excellent scholar and distinguished soldier, Gen. R. E. Wm. H. Putney and T. Dancey, charged with being engaged in an affray: Returned to the County Court.

DANIEL THOMPSON.—We are now able to give the particulars of the sad case of this young man, obtained from Mr. Leach, the Vice-President of the Institution for the Deaf, the Dumb and the Blind, who, after hearing of the case, had the young man buried. From letters found in the young man's trunk, we learn that Daniel Thompson was a son of Mr. Franklin Thompson, of Onslow County, in this State. Daniel was a student at Trinity College. His health was feeble and he determined to leave for his home at the close of the session. He left the College, we presume, on Friday evening last, and nothing occurred until his arrival on the cars at the Hillsboro station. A gentleman, who sat near him, saw him purchase a snack,—a biscuit and a piece of fowl,—which he commenced eating. About the time he had eaten half of his snack, he remarked to this gentleman, that he was very sick; in a few moments, he turned very dark and soon fell from his seat with a severe fit. All was done for him that could be, but he continued speechless and to have spasms until the train arrived here on Saturday morning. The Railroad Agent had him taken from the cars, and, we learn, dispatched messengers to several physicians, who did not receive the message or hear of the case until he was removed. In the meantime, Dr. Smith, the Surgeon of the Military Post, having received a message, went down and took him in his ambulance and carried him to the hospital and kindly did all in his power, but to no effect, until he died on Sunday.—We learn that Dr. Smith says it was a violent attack of apoplexy. There is no ground, we judge, for supposing the attack was brought on by the food he ate. It is very likely that the cold had forced the blood to the heart or brain, which caused the attack. Much regret is expressed that the young man was not sent to one of the hotels. We give these particulars, hoping they may sooner reach his friends, than they could by letter, as his father lives some distance from the Railroad.

JAMES H. HARRIS.—This man is likely to make himself notorious in more ways than one. We received, on Monday last, a letter, and an extract from a paper, from Henry M. Cropper, a colored man of Philadelphia, similar to the extract published in the Progress, of yesterday, charging one of our colored delegates to the Mongrel State Convention, this James H. Harris, with having seduced and eloped with his daughter, Josephine Cropper, in August last. We did not know Henry M. Cropper, and, therefore, requested a gentleman in Philadelphia to ascertain Cropper's character and standing, before publishing his letter, particularly as Harris is absent from the city, and we had no means of hearing his defense, until he returned. We learn that a colored girl, named Cropper, from the North, is teaching a colored school at or near Forestville, and we are inclined to believe, from what we hear, that she is the girl whom Harris is said to have seduced from her father. If so, we advise the deluded girl to go home to her parent.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.—We are indebted to the Publisher, James S. Clayton, (Successor to Wm. S. & Alfred Martien,) 1,214 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, through Messrs. Williams & Lambeth, for a handsomely bound and printed copy of "The Young Marooners on the Florida Coast, or Robert & Harrold, by F. R. Goulding." This is represented to be one of the most interesting and striking stories of the day, particularly desirable for boys and girls, and has received high encomiums from the press and the literary public. It will make a suitable Christmas present for the young folks.

Demorest's Magazine for January is a superb number. It is a great ornament to the parlor and a valuable adjunct to the housewifery department. See prospectus in another column.

The Farmer for December, published by Elliott & Shields, Richmond, is a valuable issue. There is much excellent reading matter in its departments of agriculture, horticulture, mechanic arts and house hold economy.

ESCAPED.—We learn that five convicts escaped from the County Work House, on yesterday. The Sheriff, on ascertaining the fact, at once summoned a posse and went in pursuit. We are not aware that any of them have as yet been apprehended.

REV. GEO. W. PEPPER, Chaplain U. S. A., is announced to lecture this evening at the Second Baptist Church. Subject:—Ireland—Liberty springs from her Martyrs' Blood.

THE SUSPENSION OF STANTON.—It is learned from an authoritative source that the Senate refuses to sustain the President's reasons for the suspension of Stanton. The latter will be compelled to reinstate Stanton if he follows the provisions of the Tenure of-office act. But it is known that the President intends to resort to another mode to get rid of Stanton, in case he shall be driven to extremities. Mr. Johnson, as has been stated before, does not regard the Tenure of-office act as constitutional, and claims therefore the right to remove a Cabinet officer. In case the Senate refuses to approve the reasons for suspension, the President will issue an order removing Stanton, with a view of compelling the latter to resort to the Supreme Court if he desires to contest the power of the Executive to remove.—Wash. Cor. N. Y. Herald.

The National Loyal League was in session (secret) in Washington several days last week. This, we presume, accounts for the presence there of Fields Cook and other negroes from this and other Southern States. It is stated that as an organization the League at the North is losing ground, but the attendance from the South was large, made up of delegates who evidently believe in what they are proposing to do. An account before us represents that a very spicy debate sprung up on a proposition to declare universal suffrage as a cardinal doctrine of the Republican Party. The League before adjourning adopted a resolution advising or requesting the Republican Party not to nominate any man as a candidate for President whose record does not furnish an irreversible guarantee that he will support the principle of equal civil rights in the broadest sense of the term. There were but few Grant men present, and the resolution was adopted almost unanimously.—Rich. Whig.

The impression prevails that the Senate will sustain Mr. Stanton in his controversy with President Johnson, although many of the leading Radicals admit that Mr. Johnson's communication is conclusive as to the propriety of his action. Had Mr. Stanton to rely upon the merits of his case, or upon the respect entertained for him by Senators, he would be subjected to the treatment once said to have been bestowed upon a dog having a bad name, but the truth is, the political opponents of the President have been so goured and exasperated by his annual message, that they are ready to strike back, even over the shoulders of ex Secretary Stanton. Such is, really, the true position of affairs.—Wash. Cor. Balt. Gazette.

At a sheriff's sale in Alabama, land was sold at from five to ten cents an acre, and railway stock at ten cents on the dollar.

CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19, P. M.

Senate:—The bill passed yesterday by the House, supplementary to the Reconstruction acts, was read twice and referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Several memorials, regarding the rights of American citizens abroad, were presented, and several speeches were made, urging immediate and vigorous action, to which Mr. Sumner, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, replied that the Committee could not be driven into hasty action by temporary pressure. Referred.

The deficiency bill from the House came up, and was debated at length, with calls for the ayes and nays on minor amendments; evidently with the view of staving off the cotton tax and the anti-contraction bills until after the holidays.

Three amendments are pending on the cotton tax bill, and action to-morrow is hopeless.—Doubts are expressed as to whether a quorum will be present to-morrow.

House:—Mr. Boyer offered a joint resolution, thanking Gen. Hancock for his support of civil law. The clerk was not permitted to conclude reading,—a storm of objections arising from the Republican side, and the regular order of business insisted upon.

The bill for the relief of deserters came up, and an amendment, depriving deserters to the enemy of its benefits, was adopted. The discussion developed the fact that a quarter of a million of deserters were on the rolls. A call for the previous question failed, and the bill was recommitted.

Mr. Stokes presented a resolution guaranteeing loyalists claims for losses incurred during the war. Referred.

A resolution was adopted, directing a further delay in selling the government's interest in the Dismal Swamp Canal.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the deficiency Reconstruction Act

Mr. Boyer asked if it was in order to move thanks to Gen. Hancock for doing all in his power to abrogate military government, thus reducing expenses.

The Chair ruled it out of order.

Mr. Butler said that Gen. Ord, without apparent cause, had expended more than Gens. Pope, Canby and Schofield together.

Negro character was discussed at length, Butler maintaining that he was a kind, amiable person, who would protect himself when he had the ballot.

Mr. Lawrence moved that the Conventions in the South be required to levy taxes to refund the Reconstruction expenses, which the Chairman ruled out of order. The Committee rose and the bill passed, 97 to 35.

THE LINCOLN ASSASSINATION.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19—P. M.

The President sent a message to the House, to-day, covering the report of H. G. Sharp, who was sent to Europe, last January, to investigate whether any citizens of the United States implicated in the assassination of Lincoln, were in Europe. Sharp reports that there are no legal or reasonable proofs to warrant any action of the Government against any persons now in Europe

VIRGINIA CONVENTION.

RICHMOND, Dec. 19, P. M.

The Judiciary Committee reported adversely to declaring void debts contracted since 1860 for the purchase of slaves, on the ground that the Convention has not the power to impair obligations of debt which must be decided by the civil courts. The report was tabled.

The Convention Printing was given to the Proprietors of the New Nation.

The following resolutions of enquiry were adopted:

Of establishing houses of correction in Cities of over 10,000 inhabitants;

Of establishing primary schools in districts, where 50 children can attend, and grammar schools, where 200 can attend;

Of clothing the Governor with power to remove political disabilities, when he pardons a criminal;

Of requiring all voting to be done by ballot.

A resolution asking Schofield to abolish distinctions on account of color in public conveyances, and a petition asking the same thing of the Convention, were referred.

A Committee of three members of the Convention appointed by the Republican caucus proceeded to Washington, to-day, to see about reconstruction, including the matter of the Convention's removing the State officers.

SPECIAL NOTICES

Life Insurance continues to occupy the most serious consideration of the heads of families, who, by the cessation of war, short crops and short price of Cotton, have been deprived of the support they relied upon, in case of death for their dependents; and the question with them is, "Which is the OLDEST, SAFEST, LARGEST, MOST ECONOMICAL and RELIABLE COMPANY represented in North Carolina?" I unhesitatingly assure them that I have indisputable evidence that the CONNECTICUT MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE Co. is, without doubt, prepared to prove, from the most trustworthy and authentic official reports, that she has a larger amount of assets than all other Companies in this State combined; that for eighteen years she has declared an average of fifty per cent dividend; for thirteen years her interest on investment has exceeded her losses; and her vast business is conducted at a much less expense.

All she makes is shared by the assured. No Stockholder receives the lion's share of the profits, and no Company pays its losses more promptly. Last year (1866) she paid to widows and orphans upwards of a Million of Dollars. Therefore, apply at once to P. F. PESCUD, Agt.,

LIFE INSURANCE.

[From the Insurance Monitor and Wall Street Review, New York.]

A Well-deserved Success—The Equitable Life Insurance Company.

The approaching demolition of seven buildings, consisting of that almost immemorial landmark, "Old Guerrin's," the less ancient "Saundrin's," and the present office-building of the American Express Company, on the Southeast corner of Broadway and Cedar street, together with three adjoining buildings on the latter street, is attributable to that modern insurance giant, the Equitable Life. These seven buildings are all to be replaced by one, six stories in height, including basement, and having a frontage of 56 feet 9 inches on Broadway, and one hundred and thirty-seven feet four inches on Cedar street. A number of the first architects in the country are engaged in perfecting plans for the structure, so as to make it in style, accommodation, and convenience, superior to any other building of the kind yet erected.

The building will, however, not only be made to accommodate the Company, but so arranged that the rental of such part as is not occupied by them will return an interest on the investment.—The magnitude and surpassing growth of the Equitable Life not only justify this solid investment, but render it both expedient and necessary. Although this Company has been only eight years in business, the policies issued during its eighth year covered an insurance amounting to over thirty-five millions of dollars. The total sum assured by it up to the present date approaches 100 000,000; its accumulations have run up to 3,000,000; its annual income to three millions, and will in the ensuing year doubtless expand to five million dollars.

For this rapid increase and substantial success there are abundant and most satisfactory reasons. They are found in the numerous solid advantages the Company affords. In the fact that it is purely mutual, and that all its profits go to the insured on the first of February, every year, at which time a large dividend has been regularly paid, amounting last year to six hundred thousand dollars. Its mode of apying dividends so as to accommodate them to the circumstances of the policy holders, is unequalled for the variety of the advantages it offers.

The Equitable has been enabled to deal thus liberally with its insured in consequence of the prosperity of its business and the usefulness of its management. The percentage of its "total out go," compared with its cash premium receipts, was less in 1866 than that of any older Company. Its policies average larger in amount than those of any rival institution. It insures on a single life any sum from $200 to $25,000, and issues all the most desirable non-forfeiting policies. All its policies are, however, comparatively new, and it is therefore carrying but few impaired lives. Its percentage of losses, to expunge all risk, which is much less than that of older Companies, fully sets this fact. The Equitable is, indeed, full of vitality and progressive strength, and is regarded as the most successful and—taking into consideration its age—the largest Life Insurance Company in the world.

NEW MOVEMENT IN LIFE INSURANCE.

We learn that some of the cash companies of this City have decided to adopt a uniform scale of premiums to take effect after the close of the present year, with a view to greater simplicity and uniformity in their business. These rates have been carefully deduced from American experience, and will be more accurate and satisfactory than those hitherto used which were based upon English statistics. The Mutual, Equitable, Washington, Widows and Orphans' Standard and one or two other companies have arranged into this desirable arrangement. We learn that these companies have decided to establish a system by which their rejections and other points relating to medical examination and statistics will be made known to each other and mutual benefit derived. The contribution plan of dividends has been adopted by the company for named.

There are many other points in life insurance, both theoretical and practical upon which companies conducted upon the general principles can unite for mutual aid and advantage, and yet preserve their individual idiosyncrasies and independence in all other respects, such we learn, is the leading idea governing the proposed union, which cannot fail to be attended with favorable results.

THE HEART-SKEIN.

BY ROBERT BUCHANAN.

Slip, yes, slip your skein, my Kitty,
O'er my hands: and wind, and wind,
All the white, with little pity,
Tangling, tangling, heart and mind!
Kitty! eyes upon the wool!
Not on me, my beautiful!

Now you drop your eyes completely,
Winding, winding, dreamily;
Wherefore, wherefore smile so sweetly
On a thing that cannot see?
If you must smile, smile this way!
I will bear it as I may!

Ah! the rosebud fingers flitting
Swift about the color'd ball!
How my heart beats time, while sitting;
Still, I try to bear it all!
Kitty, do you know or care
'Tis my heart you're winding there?

Kitty, I am in a vision!
All the world to mist doth die;
Only, in an air Elysian,
Little fairy fingers fly:
Surely, if they fit for wear,
I shall catch and kiss them, dear!

Tangled! pout not, frown not, Kitty!
Though I gladly bear the pain;
For your anger is so pretty,
It may make me sin again.
There! 'tis well! Now, wind and wind,
Tangling further heart and mind!

Now, 'tis done! the last thread lingers
Sadly from me, slow to part;
Can't thou see that in my fingers
I am holding up my heart?
Wind and wind! I do not care!
Smile or frown! and I will bear!

Ah! so fast and quick you wind it,
I'm more can keep it mine;
Do you wonder that you find it
Throbbing now, close, close to thine?
Tangled, tangled are the twain:
Kiss, kiss, kiss them free again!

THE COMMENCEMENT OF OLD AGE.

What are the signs of natural decay?—When does old age commence? The natural history of individual death, without disease, is one of the subjects which it remains for modern physicians to study.—When does the vital machine begin to wear out in the typically healthy man, and what are the ways by which normal decay, inevitable death, invades the aged man? With our modern means of precise observation and minute pathological research we should be able now to lay the foundation for the answer to this most important question.—The subject is suggested to us by a most thoughtful, able, and well written thesis on death, considered from the etiological points of view, by Dr. Acosta, of Paris, which will repay the perusal of reflective men. Discussing the difficulty of determining the commencement of old age, Dr. Acosta reminds us that, while the Greeks regarded the age of 49 (seven times seven, their climacteric number) as the culminating point of human strength, and, at the same time, as the commencement of decadence, M. Flourens holds that decadence does not commence until the 70th. year—an age which the Chinese, according to Sir John Bowring, regard as a metaphorical one, calling those who have attained to it "rare birds," and men of 90 years old "loiterers." The two climacteric ages of the Arabs were 63 and 81, being the multiplication of nine (their magic number) by seven and nine. The age of 63 was considered so critical that it was called the grand climacteric, and the ancients were accustomed to mutually congratulate each other when they had passed it. Quetelet, to a certain extent, admits the danger of this critical period, for he says: "From 60 to 65 years of age vitality loses much of its energy—that is to say, the probability of continuing to live diminishes greatly. M. Revelle Parise, while in common with some other physiologists allowing the existence of two sources of strength in the constitution, which he names force in reserve and force in use, believes that the physiological fact which reveals old age is the progressive dimunition of reserved force so superabundant in youth. There certainly exist some organizations which are proof against the ravages of time and the attacks of sickness and death. Some men at the age of 80, 90, even 100 years, have preserved their sensorial and intellectual faculties, and great mental energy, even to the last days of their life. A complete list of them would be too long. We will, therefore, only mention a few names. Plato died at the age of 81, pen in hand. Gorgias continued his literary labors to the age of 107. Socrates wrote his famous Panegyric of Athens in his 94th. year; Theophrastus his Characters at 99: Cato learnt Greek after his 60th. year; Cicero composed his charming work, De Senectute, one year before his violent death; Voltaire wrote a great number of tragedies, Tancrede and L' Orphelin de la Chine, among others, worthy of his best time, at the age of 65, and he came to Paris in his 84th year to give himself an intellectual treat, the representation of his tragedy of Irene. There are also still living members of our profession, as well as the literary, scientific and political world, who would illustrate the list of Nestors, remarkable both for their longevity and for the intellectual labors to which they continue to devote themselves. Disraeli has said, "Old age has been a thing unknown to many men of genius."—British Medical Journal.

A CHILD CHARMED BY A SNAKE.—A woman named Somers, residing in Worcester, Pennsylvania, went into the orchard to gather some fruit, and left her little babe, less than a year old, sitting upon the ground. She soon passed out of sight of the child, but hearing his voice cooing and laughing, she gave herself no uneasiness. Suddenly the sounds ceased, and she stepped around to him, supposing him asleep. But to her horror, she saw him sitting perfectly motionless, his lips parted, and his eyes fixed upon an enormous rattlesnake, that was approaching him by almost imperceptible motions. She looked in vain for some stick or stone to kill the monstrous reptile, then, quick as thought, she sprang toward it, overturned the pan which she had in her hand, so as to effectually cover its body, got upon it, and screamed for help. The covering of the snake broke the spell upon the child, its little body swayed to and fro, and it crept quickly toward the heroic mother. In a few minutes friends came to her relief, and the cause of her terror was dispatched.
